Annual Cohon Lecture

Lecturer Dr. Joyce Antler

Description Our Cohon lecturer this year is Dr. Joyce Antler, the Samuel J. Lane Professor

Emerita of American Jewish History and Culture and Professor Emerita of

Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies at Brandeis University

Date Friday, March 1, 7:30 pm, at Shabbat services.

Bio Joyce Antler is a social and cultural historian, with special interests in the history of American women; history-as-theater; the history of education, and women's biography. She has written widely on the history of women, and on Jewish women, and is currently working on a book on women's liberation and Jewish identity. She is also a prize-winning historical dramatist and works with her students to create original documentary dramas on matters of social urgency.

The Intersection of Cubism and Judaism

Instructor Amos Lassen

Description Cubism is often considered to be the seminal art movement of the twentieth century and engendered a pictorial revolution through a radical approach to image-making as well as influencing the fields of literature, photography, music, fashion and philosophy. Jews flocked to the new movement, and we will look at several of these Jewish thinkers and their influence on modern Jewish thought.

Date 2 Tuesday evenings: March, 12, 19; 7:30 pm – 9:00 pm

Format Zoom only

Bio Temple member Amos Lassen moved to Brookline in May 2012

after having spent 7 years in Arkansas when Hurricane Katrina changed his plans for a two-year visiting professorship in New Orleans. He lived in Israel for many years. Amos has taught at the Hebrew University, the University of New Orleans and the University of Central Arkansas. He grew up in the Young Judaea movement in New Orleans.

Drawing from the Psalms: Five Contemporary Poems

Instructor Jenny Barber

Description For many centuries, poets have been influenced by reading the Biblical psalms.

In this course, we will study five contemporary poems: "Psalm of the Flying Shell" by Sharon Dolin; "151st Psalm" by Karl Shapiro; "Create in Me a Clean Heart, O God" by Leslie Williams; "A Psalm from the Night College" by Yehoshua November; and "Five Psalms" by Mark Jarman. We will discuss how aspects of the psalms manifest themselves in the contemporary poems, and how the latter differ from each other and from their source. (The poems will provided during the class.)

Dates 2 Sundays: March 10 and 17, 9:30 am – 10:50 am

Format In person at Temple Sinai (no Zoom)

Bio Temple Sinai member Jenny Barber, who is Brookline's Poet

Laureate, taught literature and creative writing at Suffolk University from 2004 to 2018. She has also taught at Wellesley College, Bradford College, the Harvard Extension School, and the Brookline Adult and Community Education Program. She is the founding editor of the literary journal Salamander, and her most recent collection of poems is Works on Paper (The Word Works, 2016).

Dissecting Short Stories from the Bible

Instructor Robin Orwant

Description Many people are familiar with English translations of Biblical stories but lack the ability to study the texts in the original Hebrew. Robin will introduce us to a number of these stories, dissecting the original Hebrew to reveal nuances often not apparent in translation. No knowledge of Hebrew is required.

Dates 4 Wednesdays: March 20, 27, April 3, 10, 7:00 pm – 8:30 pm

Format In person at Temple Sinai and via Zoom

Bio Temple member Robin Orwant has taught multiple classes at Temple

Sinai, including courses on the Haftarah, chanting Torah, beginning Hebrew, and prayers, as well as summer courses, with Jeremy Wolfe, on a variety of biblical texts. She has also been responsible for teaching Hebrew to the members of Temple Sinai's recent Adult B'nai Mitzvah classes.

Stars of the Night

Caren Stelson, Selina Alko; moderated by Temple Sinai member Richard Asch Instructors

Stars of The Night - The Courageous Children of the Czech Kindertransport is a Description

picture book tells the story of the children who were rescued from Czechoslovakia on the eve of World War II through the efforts of Sir Nicholas Winton. Told from the collective perspective of the children, the narrative is designed for young readers 8 and older, but is suitable for all ages. Author Caren Stelson and illustrator Selina Alko will present excerpts and illustrations and will also provide background information.

The presentation will include a short but powerful video of the "reveal," when the

Nicholas Winton story came to light.

Date Sunday, March 31, 11:10 am – 12:30 pm

Format In person at Temple Sinai and via Zoom

Caren Stelson is the author of Sachiko: A Nagasaki Atomic Bomb Bio

Survivor's Story, and A Bowl of Peace, a picture book of Sachiko Yasui's story, as well as other works for children and young adults. She has had a long career as a reading specialist, an elementary classroom teacher, a freelance writer for educational publishing companies, and a writer-in-residence in schools. Carn holds a BA in History, a Master's in Education, and received her MFA in Writing for Children and Young Adults from Hamline University in 2009.

Selina Alko is a writer-illustrator who grew up in Vancouver with a Turkish Jewish father who taught painting, and a Jewish mother who worked in the family's century-old metal recycling business. As a child, Selina and her family would attend her father's painting class where they were asked to copy paintings using acrylics. This taught her about the use of color and instilled in her a deep appreciation for painting. Aside from art, Selina's childhood was also filled with books. The skills her parents imparted to her and the creative environment that supported them are evident in her many children's books, including The Case for Loving: The Fight for Interracial Marriage, B is for Brooklyn, Daddy Christmas & Hanukkah Mama, I is for Immigrants, and Joni: The Lyrical Life of Joni Mitchell.

• The Rise and Fall of The American Jewish Gangster

Instructor Larry Lowenthal

Description

From 1870 -1924, 2 million Jews from Eastern Europe, escaping pogroms and grinding poverty, poured into America. Within a single generation, many rose to extraordinary heights of commercial, social, and intellectual success. But a significant minority created an underworld culture of prostitutes, pimps, gamblers and gangsters.

Each Jewish ghetto in every major American city produced some of the best known criminals of the time: Monk Eastman, Harry "Gyp the Blood" Horowitz, Big Jack Zelig, Arnold Rothstein, Dutch Schultz, Waxy Gordon, Ben "Bugsy" Siegel, Meyer Lansky, Lepke Buchalter and Gurrah Shapiro, to name a few.

Fascinating questions arise:

What drew young Jews, some from good, middle class families, to crime rather than law or medicine or business? Why did Jewish gangsters bond with Italians rather than Irish? Why were Jewish gangsters essentially a one generation phenomenon in contrast to the Italians? What was the surprising role of Jewish gangsters in the Jewish battle against American Nazis in the 30's and 40's? Though unsavory, shocking, brutal, and contrary to positive stereotypes of American Jews, the story of Jewish gangsterism deserves to be told. To quote Frank Tannenbaum, a cultural historian: "The criminals themselves are part of the community, in its deepest sense, and are as much its products as are the philosophers, poets, investors, businessmen and scientists, reformers and saints."

Dates 3 Sundays: April 7, 14, and 21, 11:10 am – 12:30 pm

Format In person at Temple Sinai and via Zoom

Bio Dr. Lawrence D. Lowenthal received his Ph.D. in Literature from New York University and taught at Washington State University, Gettysburg College, Hebrew University in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv University. For 20 years he served as New England Director of the American Jewish Committee. After his retirement, he taught in the Jewish Studies Department of Northeastern University for 7 years.

The Business of Beauty: Jews and the Oriental Carpet Trade in Britain, 1860-1930

Instructor Aviva Ben-Ur

Description Professor Ben-Ur is working on a book on Ottoman (Middle Eastern) immigrants in the West and in particular focusing on Sephardi carpet dealers in the U.K. The project combines an art history approach (emphasizing the beauty of the merchandise) with a consideration of how these Jews introduced their Middle Eastern cultural background and aesthetics to broader British society, struggled to gain British citizenship as enemy aliens during World War I, and their transnational business connections, which extended all over the Middle East and the U.S.

Date Sunday, May 5, 11:10 am – 12:30 pm

Format In person at Temple Sinai and via Zoom

Bio Aviva Ben-Ur is a Professor in the Department of Judaic and Near Eastern Studies at the University of Massachusetts Amherst. A historian specializing in Atlantic Jewish history, she is the author of

Remnant Stones: The Jewish Cemeteries and Synagogues of

Suriname: Essays (Hebrew Union College Press, 2012) and Remnant Stones: The Jewish Cemeteries of Suriname: Epitaphs (Hebrew Union College Press, 2009), both co-authored with Rachel Frankel;

Sephardic Jews in America: A Diasporic History (New York University Press, 2009), and Jewish Autonomy in a Slave Society: Suriname in the Atlantic World, 1651-1825 (University of Pennsylvania Press, 2020).

Queer Torah Study (sponsored by the Rainbow Committee)

Instructor Ben Gerson

Description These sessions will continue the study that was successfully introduced during the 2022-23 year. Our study will affirm our journey as LGBTQ Jewish individuals and allies in the context of our sacred text. As we gather together, we will be provided with texts that celebrate identity as well as those that can challenge our current sensibilities. A variety of Torah passages have been used to emphasize the dignity and worth of LGBTQ Jews, while others have been used to denigrate them. In light of modern biblical scholarship, it is important for us to recognize how these texts have been used in their historical context and how we can make sense of them through the nuance of language. All are welcome to join us on several Shabbat afternoons during the year, followed by Havdalah. Light refreshments will be provided.

Dates Saturday at 5:00 pm: April 20, June 8.

Format In person at Temple Sinai

Bio Ben Gerson is originally from Marblehead and lives in Cambridge,

MA with his husband Kevin. He received his education from Goucher College and completed his Masters of Teaching at Salem State University. He is a middle and high school teacher at a local private school where he teaches Spanish and American History. He also teaches 6th grade pre—B'nai Mitzvah students at Temple Sinai. In his spare time Ben enjoys music, specifically playing classical piano and klezmer accordion.

Ongoing Classes

• Shabbat Morning Torah Study

with Rabbi Andy Vogel

Twice a month on Shabbat mornings, Temple Sinai members gather to discuss the ideas presented by the week's Torah portion. We begin with a bit of singing and then study the text in English. You need not have any prior study of the Torah or Hebrew knowledge, simply an interest in considering the Torah portion as it relates to our contemporary experiences or those of Jews in previous generations. All are welcome for this friendly exchange of Jewish ideas! Come just once to try it out.

2nd & 4th Saturday mornings of each month at 9:00 am. Zoom and on-site. The Zoom link is publicized a few days in advance.

Thursday Morning Study

with Rabbi Andy Vogel

Join us each Thursday for a lively and friendly class with Rabbi Vogel. We study a wide variety of topics, rotating to a new field of study about every six weeks or so. Thursday Study includes discussions, films, text study, and an occasional guest speaker. Join us each Thursday or feel free to drop in just once! All are welcome.

Every Thursday, 10:15 -11:45 am. Zoom and on-site. Call or email the temple office to be added to the distribution list for information about the session and each week's Zoom link.

• Daf Shevui: Talmud Study Group

This group gathers for an hour on Sunday mornings to discuss a page of Talmud each week. Zoom only. Contact karen.keely@gmail.com if you would like to be added to the email list to receive weekly details about the next meeting.
